

THE HONORABLE FRANK E. SCHWELB
ASSOCIATE JUDGE
DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COURT OF APPEALS

Judge Frank E. Schwelb was appointed to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals by President Ronald Reagan and joined the court in 1988.

Judge Schwelb was born in Prague, Czechoslovakia and lived in Britain as a refugee for eight years before relocating to the United States with his family at the age of fifteen. He graduated from Yale University, Phi Beta Kappa, in 1953 before earning his law degree from Harvard Law School in 1958. From 1955 to 1957, Judge Schwelb served in the U.S. Army.

Following law school, Judge Schwelb served as an associate at the New York firm of Mudge, Stern, Baldwin & Todd (later Nixon, Mudge, Rose, Guthrie, Alexander & Mitchell, then Mudge, Rose, Guthrie & Alexander). From 1962 to 1979, he served in the Civil Rights Division of the U.S. Department of Justice, enforcing federal statutes prohibiting discrimination in voting, education, employment and public accommodations. In 1969 he was appointed the first Chief of the Housing Section of the Civil Rights Division, overseeing the Department's fair housing enforcement program. He also served as Special Counsel to the Health, Education and Welfare Secretary's Review Panel on New Drug Regulation from 1976 to 1977. In 1979, Judge Schwelb was appointed to the Superior Court of the District of Columbia by President Carter.

Judge Schwelb is the author of several law review articles and numerous judicial opinions, including United States v. Porter, 618 A.2d 629 (D.C. 1992) (admissibility of DNA evidence); District of Columbia v. Sierra Club, 670 A.2d 354 D.C. 1996 (right to judicial review, separation of powers); In re Abrams, 689 A.2d 6 (D.C. 1997) (applicability of presidential pardon authority to disciplinary proceeding against attorney); Nixon v. United States, 728 A.2d 582 (D.C. 1999) (admissibility of expert testimony regarding battered woman's syndrome). He has lectured on Equal Housing Opportunity at law schools, bar organizations, and real estate industry groups, taught various CLE courses, and participated in Moot Court and other training for law students. He frequently briefs visiting Czech and Slovak judges, attorneys, and other international visitors regarding U.S. legal system. Judge Schwelb has participated in several international legal programs in the United States and abroad. Previously, as a Justice Department attorney, he received awards for sustained superior performance, and in 1967 he was named a Younger Federal Lawyer of the Year by the Federal Bar Association.

Judge Schwelb is married to Taffy Wurzburg Schwelb and enjoys travel, sports, Gilbert and Sullivan, Shakespeare and Czech and Slovak activities.
